

SPSP 2017 and Gondwana Telescopes Kids' Creativity Competition

Theme: What does astronomy mean to you?

Tell us what astronomy means to you by unleashing your inner writer or artist ... or sculptor!

It could be about science, or maybe about what appeals to you or your family ... anything really!

Tell us about it in a painting, a poem or story, or maybe even a sculpture!

Entry conditions and formats:

- * Open to ALL kids up to and including 17 years of age.
- * Written pieces - up to one A4 page, can be an essay, story, poem, comic strip or really any written form of expression!
- * Drawings and paintings - A3 or smaller.
- * Sculptures - 10kg or less.
- * Entrants must be attendees of SPSP 2017, but do not need to be present for the award presentation on the Saturday afternoon. Entries may be prepared beforehand, or at the Star Party using the art and craft materials supplied for the kids' workshops.

The age of the entrant is taken into account in the judging process.

If you are 17, 13 or 4, your entry is just as important!

PRIZE: a Campo Del Cielo Meteorite
